

INDAILY

Corporate Ladder: your weekly guide to executive appointments

7 June 2021

By Thomas Kelsal

Freight company recruits council director

Former Adelaide City Council Executive Vanessa Godden has joined global logistics business Northline as its inaugural Head of Human Resources.

The Norwood-based freight company, which has two centres in Adelaide and 13 depots across Australia, created the new role after opting to restructure their business to better attract and retain skilled workers.

Godden joins after more than seven years as an associate director at Adelaide City Council.

She was also a Senior Manager at Deloitte Australia and held various HR roles during a 10-year stint with Westpac.

“I’m really looking forward to getting to know the team and business at Northline, learning about a new sector and supporting and contributing to an environment that creates great experiences for our people and in turn, our customers,” she said.